

Finding the Right Office Space in Minneapolis

Whether you're starting a new business or moving an existing one, choosing a location to rent should be an exciting time. You get to find a home for your passion – the place that shows the world what you're all about. However, researching and leasing commercial space can feel more stressful than exciting. There's no need to worry. Before you think about negotiations, you need to know what to look for in a new space. There are 4 basic guidelines that will make your search easier and more productive. Here are the first three.